FROM WASHINGTON.

Expulsion of Senators---The South and the President---The Vermont and New Jersey Senators.

The news from Washington, immediately upon the veto of the Civil Rights bill, is unusually interesting. We give below the most important extracts. The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun writes as follows:

THE RADICALS AND THE VETO---SECRETARY WELLES.

WASHINGTON, March 28.---It is not supposed by leading Republicans that it will be necessary to expel more Senators in order to carry out their measures over the Executive veto or for constitutional amendments. The Connecticut Republiaans got no comfort from Secretery Welles. His advice to Mr. Hawley was to go home and support the President's policy.

THE BILL TO BE PASSED OVER THE VETO.

The President's reasons for witholding his assent from the Civil Rights bill will appear to every one, who is not blinded by party prejudice, as amply sufficient. But it is not probable, according to the aspect of matters to day, that the Senate will sustain it. The Radicals are now likely to secure their coveted party triumph by overriding an Executive veto. This will serve to widen the breach between Congress and the President, and impart more asperity and bitteraess to the conflict. Scarcely a third of the whole number of Senators now present can be relied upon to support the veto.

RADICAL SENATORS FROM NEW JERSEY AND VERMONT.

Besides, the New Jersey Legislature will elect a Republican Senator to-day, who will be here to-morrow. Vermont will also have a Senator in place of the deceased Mr. Foot, within two or three days. But some of the conservative Republican Senators, who voted to sustain the veto of the Freedmen's Bureau, will not take the same course in support of the present veto. They may regard the objections technical rather than constitutional, and some of them may not deem it politic, even if they are disposed, to follow the President too closely.

The Stonewall Cemetery.

AN APPEAL TO NORTH CAROLINIANS.

In and around the city of Winchester, Virginia, there occurred during the late war seven or eight pitched battles, and some thirty skirmishes. Within an area of twelve miles around Winchester, there are between seven and ten thousand Confederate Soldiers buried. A large number of our dead were buried in what is known as the old Episcopal Cemetery, and many were buried in the New cemetery. The citizens of Winchester were careful in seeing that all who were killed in battle or died from disease in the city, were not only decently interred, but their graves were marked and numbered, and entered at the time in charts still in preservation for future reference. Of that number, there were many that they were unable to identify, either from want of marks on their clothing or persons, or because of their delirious condition produced by disease or wounds. Still they all received a christian burial

But there are thousands who were buried on the fields where they fell. Some of them were buried by their friends or comrades, who carefully marked their graves. But many were buried in haste, either by the citizens or the Federal soldiers. Coffins were entirely out of the question. Many were scarcely put under the ground, and in some instances they were buried by simply piling the earth upon their bodies.---Every rain removes the earth and leaves exposed the remains of our gallant dead who were buried in this style. The bones of many Confederate soldiers now whiten the plains of the State of Virginia.

The ladies of Winchester have purchased a beautiful site near the city, to be known under the name and style of "The Stonewall Cemetery," and to be used as a receptacle for dead from all the Confederate States, whose remains are scattered over the various battle fields around that city. Separate lots are reserved for each State, and in the centre of the cemetery---which is to be the chief object of attraction---a special lot is reserved for "our unknown dead."

In a recent visit to Winchester, the author of this article learned from undoubted authority, that there are more North Carolinians who sleep in soldier's graves in and around Winchester, than the representatives from any other Confederate State. The North Carolina troops won an enviable reputation in the late civil war for gallantry and prowess, as their ancestors did in the war of 1776. Unless greatly mistaken, all our citizens of every political creed will feel it a privilege to respond to a cause so magnanimous. It is earnestly requested, therefore, that all North Carolinians will consider this appeal personally addressed to them, and respond with that spirit of liberality which is their chief characteristic.

Steps are being taken to have the bodies of the Federal dead properly cared for. Though our cause was lost, shall we be less patriotic? Whatever may be said about the cause for which we fought, one fact is patent---a true soldier respects a brave enemy. The Federal soldiers respect the Confederate soldiers for their gallantry. They could not, were we unmindful of our dead.

A Card.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 10, 1866.

To aid the ladies of Winchester in their plan of arranging and adorning a Cemetery for the burial of the Confederate dead, who lie around their town, I have cheerfully consented to act as their agent in the State of North Carolina. I will take great pleasure in receiving and forwarding all contributions for that purpose---The object appeals to every generous heart, and it is earnestly hoped that, notwithstanding the impoverished condition of our country, the conduct of the Virginia ladies will be endorsed by a universal response in the work they have undertaken, and their noble example emulated by those of our own State. Let the ladies of every town and village arouse once more their energies, and, with the same untiring diligence and devotion they showed in feeding and clothing, in encouraging and cheering the soldiers while the struggle lasted, let them now make it their mournful mission to do honor to the precious remains that lie mouldering in the Valley of the Shenandoah.

☞ It is my intention to visit every town on the railroads within the State this Spring. Citizens in the interior, wishing to contribute or correspond with me on the subject, will please address me at this place. Notice will be given through the papers of my intended visits.

All the papers in the State are respectfully requested to copy.

SALISBURY BRASS BAND

REORGANIZED 1st January, 1866, on a larger scale than formerly, under the direction of its former tutor, W. H. NEAVE, who was also chief music writer and Band Teacher in Gen Lee's army. He will be assisted in leadship and direction by his brother, Ed. Neave, leader during the entire late war of Gen Lee's best and most favorite band, viz: 4th N. C. The Band is composed of the best musicians of the old Band together with the best members of several of the fine Bands trained by W. H. Neave, in camps, who have moved to Salisbury from all portions in the State to follow their respective vocations and continue the study and practice of music. This Band will be a permanent institution for all State and festive occasions, and will equal the best to be found in the world, if sustained by those desiring a fine order of Brass and String music, if not, it must go down after this year.

W. H Neave is also agent for the celebrated Dodworth Brass instruments, proved and warranted to him, and by him to others; also, the most pleasing, effective and popular Piano music, selected by his friends, H. B. Dodworth and Kent Bideford, New York. For beginners, medium players, and advanced musicians, no trash for either.

Music composed and arranged to order for Parlor, Orchestral and Brass Band use for any kind and number of instruments.

Salisbury has been selected for Musical Headquarters for its central position.

N B. No letters of enquiry for musical information, but with no view to business with Mr. Neave or Band, must contain two postage stamps.

"Our Neighbor."

We hail, with pleasure, every indication which the Standard gives, of its approval of President Johnson's policy and principles. Its endorsement of the recent Veto Message of the President, which so clearly draws the line of demarcation between the President and the Radicals that our neighbor can no longer be trapped in the meshes of the Radicals or lost in "wandering mazes" which to choose, is cheering. The differences between the President and the Radicals are fundamental. He is for the Constitution as it is; they for the Constitution as they want it. He recognizes the time-honored interpretations of that instrument, as clearly establishing the legitimate rights of the States in the Federal Union; they, only such modern interpretations as reduce the States to mere abject dependencies, ruled by a centralized national Union, obliterating entirely the Federative character of the government. He is equally tenacious of the real rights, both of the black and white races; they only for equalizing the two races, which God has made to differ. He is for the Union as it is and was; they for a Union not recognized by the Constitution. He is for cementing and equalizing the whole country for the country's good; they want no Union that does not fix upon the country, inexorably and forever, the Radical party as its sole rulers.

For several months, the selections and editorials of the Standard have shown, unmistakably, that its heart is with the Radicals, while the weak praises of the President were upon its lips; not because the Standard was for the Union and the whole country. No! We would not do it injustice, knowingly or willingly, but, for the life of us, we have not been able to detect, in the course of the Standard, any higher object for its aim, than the political promotion of its Editor and its "strait-sect" party.

Even now, with the endorsement of the President upon its lips, it will not give up its darling aim. While all the Southern States, and nine tenths of the leading men and masses of the Southern States, unequivocally declare their devotion to President Johnson and his administration, their readiness to carry out his known policy, the Standard still unblushingly asserts that the Southern people have not carried out his policy in good faith—thus ignoring the most prominent facts and playing into the hands of the Radicals.

In what respect have they not carried out the President's policy? The Standard only mentions one instance. It is this: "On the other hand, the people of the North have a right to expect that the States will return to the Union in good faith, through the instrumentality of 'unmistakably' loyal men." We admit this.—We would not, for a moment, place a man in office of doubtful loyalty, nor would the people. Is Gov. Holden an "unmistakably" loyal man? We defy him, or any one else, to point out a man in office in North Carolina, who is not his equal in loyalty to the Government. We defy him to name one less so, to be judged of by any fair, safe rule. Who shall be the judge? Where shall we find the test?

The only safe rule is the one President Johnson has laid down. He judges a man to be "unmistakably" loyal, who is devoted to the Union and the Constitution. Upon no other test could he conclude that Mr. Holden was loyal, when he appointed him Provisional Governor. He, the father of secession in North Carolina, an active, urgent promoter of the war, "the last dollar and the last man" man, the eulogist of the South and the Confederacy and of Jefferson Davis, but now their defamer, had no better claim to loyalty to the U. S. government than the worst rebel in the South, until he acknowledged his error—acknowledged that he was conquered—that he submitted in good faith—could not take the "test oath," but took the oath of amnesty, and was forgiven. And yet he sets up a different and another test—one different from the one the President makes,—of the loyalty of North Carolinians and of the Southern people!

The Standard's Quips.

The Standard, of the 29th ult., in summing up the instances in which the President has been "trifled with," asserts that "Gov. Worth, during the last session of the Legislature, having been requested by the Secretary of the Treasury to designate persons for the offices of Assessor and Collector of the Internal Revenue, who could take the oath, instead of shouldering the responsibility himself, referred the matter to the members of the Legislature, secessionists included; and the secessionists of the first Congressional District refused to recommend any one who could take the oath. D. D. Ferebee, Esq., since appointed by Gov. Worth to an important State office, was conspicuous, as we learn, in refusing to recommend any one who could take the oath."

The evident object and tendency of this article are to engender and encourage in the North alienation against the South. It was not intended for the Southern reader. If the Standard can make the North believe, that the secession influence is dominant in this State and that Gov. Holden is the only prominent man in the State who is loyal, why, of course, he will again be made Governor over a people who do not want him as their Governor.

The facts are well known, and the article consequently produces only disgust here. When Gov. Worth was requested to recommend a Collector and Assessor for each of the seven districts of this State, restricted to those who could take the test oath, is it just cause of complaint against him, that he asked the members from each district to suggest names, subject to this restriction, who would be acceptable to the people among whom they were to act? Accompanying this request was a suggestion of names for the first district, and for several other districts, in lieu of which the Governor was desired to recommend others, if he could suggest others whom he might deem more suitable. In the first district, the members thus restricted did not recommend others, probably because they did not know others, who were more suitable, who would accept and take the oath. Out of this mare's nest the Standard gets material to foster hostility, on the part of the radical disunionists of the North, against Gov. Worth and North Carolina!

The Standard says "the secessionists of the first Congressional District refused to recommend any one who could take the oath." D. D. Ferebee, whom Gov. Worth recently appointed a commissioner to investigate the affairs of the Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal Company, is mentioned as being conspicuous in refusing to recommend any one who could take the oath. There are about thirty members from the first district. Will the Standard name which of these members it deems a secessionist? Will it name two of them—one of them? If it was not proper for Gov. Worth to appoint Mr. Ferebee to investigate the affairs of the Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal Company, will it explain how it was proper for Gov. Holden to appoint the same gentleman a Director in said Company?

The master spirit of the Standard, the father of secession in North Carolina, intimates that he smells secession in the recommendations for Collectors and Assessors, when he well knows that every man recommended can take the oath, and that not two members from the district were ever secessionists. The article can produce only loathing at home. It will, perhaps, however, accomplish its object: furnish the radicals an excuse for the indulgence of malevolence towards us, and thus subserve the purposes of the Standard!

A Historical Parallel.

Pending the Compromise excitement of 1850, when the Standard, and others, were for breaking up the Union rather than submit to the terms of that series of measures, it will be remembered that, on the 6th of March of that memorable year, Mr. Webster made one of those grand efforts in the United States Senate, which immortalized him, while it saved the country. That speech was published under the immediate auspices of Mr. Webster, and, upon its title page, he inscribed the noble motto: "Nulla vestigia retrorsum,"—"no step backwards."

At a late conference between President Johnson and some citizens of New Jersey, Mr. Wright, their spokesman, observed: "Your self-denial, when tendered $30,000,000 and 200,000 men to answer purposes other than those known to the Constitution, will ever mark you as a pure and unselfish patriot."

The President replied briefly, thanking the gentlemen for the encouragement they had inspired, and promising to TAKE NO STEP BACKWARD!

It is the fervent aspiration of every genuine patriot, that he may be strengthened in his lofty determination, and that he may be crowned with the same success over the disunionists of the present day, that attended the former efforts of the great "Defender of the Constitution."

Gov. Fenton, of New York

It has been stated in the papers that Governor Fenton, of New York, had refused to make a requisition upon Gov. Worth, of this State, for the delivery of a fugitive from justice. This the Albany Evening Journal denies. It says, that Gov. Fenton concludes that it does not lie with in the province of his office to decide whether the States are fully reconstructed or not, but, recognizing the existence of their State governments, has "responded to two requisitions from Gov. Wells of Louisiana, and one from Gov. Worth of N. C. He has not refused to make a requisition upon the Governor of North Carolina, because he has not been asked to do so."

SPEECH.—We are indebted to Hon. A. J. Rogers, of New Jersey, for a copy of his patriotic and excellent speech, in Congress, on "amending the Constitution and reconstructing the Union."

Interview with President Johnson.

The undersigned were introduced to President Johnson on Friday evening, the 23d instant, by General Rousseau, a member of Congress from Kentucky, and a personal friend of the President, who had previously assured us that the President, in view of the success of his restoration policy, so vital to the welfare of the Union, desired the election of the Hon. James E. English, of Connecticut. General Rousseau remained with us during our interview with the President.

We stated to the President that we had called to ascertain beyond question or doubt the position which he took in a late conversation with General Hawley and Messrs. Owen and Griswold, of Connecticut, a report of which had been published, and which we believed did not fully represent the President's sentiments as expressed upon that occasion.

He said he had no views to conceal; that the present crisis demanded frank avowals, and he had publicly made them. He hoped no deception would be practiced upon the people.

We read to him the despatch of Messrs. Owen and Griswold to the Republican meeting in Hartford. He expressed surprise that the gentlemen had omitted an essential part of his remarks. He said he did stand upon the principles of the Baltimore platform, the object of which was to restore the Union; and that was his object now. He did desire the success of the Union party.

We then said, It is claimed in Connecticut that when you say you desire the success of "the Union party" you desire the election of General Hawley, as the party that supports him calls itself "the Union party."

He replied, that he meant by the Union party, at this time, the party which supports his Union restoration policy, whoever they may be, and no others. He did not consider those who opposed his policy as belonging to the Union party. There should be no misrepresentation in this matter; he considered that the welfare of the Union depended upon the success of his restoration policy.

The President then remarked, that Messrs. Owen and Griswold should have reported him as saying that he was the friend of those who supported his policy, and the opponent of those who opposed it. The question, said he, of my restoration policy is the paramount question, and all who oppose it are my opponents.

We assured the President that if those gentlemen had so telegraphed his remarks, we should not have been here this evening.

The President then said: "The principles of my restoration policy are fundamental. No man can approve of my policy and THAT of CONGRESS at the same time. That is impossible. In New Hampshire it was claimed that both policies were supported, which, of course, could not be; but after the election it was claimed that a Radical victory had been achieved." He trusted the people would not be deceived.

We then handed the President the resignation of Postmaster Cleveland. He took the letter, read it over carefully, and remarked, "I this morning read in the Intelligencer Mr. Cleveland's late speech at Hartford. It is a good speech. He takes the right ground." He then read Mr. Cleveland's letter again, and in our presence signed upon the back of it his approval of Mr. C.'s course, and calling his secretary, requested him to put it in an official envelope and direct it to Mr. Cleveland, which having been done, the President returned it to us unsealed.

Our interview was exceedingly pleasant and entirely satisfactory to us, and we so expressed ourselves to the President on taking leave of him.

A. E. BURR,
March 24, 1866. C. M. INGERSOLL.

We copy the foregoing account of a recent interview between the President and a delegation from the State of Connecticut, from the National Intelligencer, which journal, it is well known, sustains the confidential relations of an organ to the Administration. The bold and emphatic utterances of the President speak for themselves, and need no comment at our hands. They sustain the position, which we have invariably assumed, that it is impossible to approve of his policy, and that of Congress, at the same time. The President will tolerate no attempt to "ride both sides of the sapling." A few days since, the "strait sect" organ in this City announced to its peculiar friends: "The President is with you. CONGRESS IS WITH YOU." What has that paper to say now? And if the President is a reader of the "Standard," what will he think of the man whom he so recently honored with his confidence?

Habeas Corpus.

A distinguished citizen of Maryland makes an earnest, dignified and able appeal to the President, through the columns of the National Intelligencer, to restore the privileges of the writ of Habeas Corpus to the South. We make the following eloquent extracts:

"Now that the rebellion is crushed, the war at an end, and the people have returned in good faith to their former allegiance to the United States, can there longer exist a necessity of withholding the privileges of the writ from this people in these States wherein it is now withheld? The act was passed and the President clothed with all necessary 'power during the said rebellion,' whenever in his judgment the public safety should require it, to suspend the privileges of the writ of habeas corpus in any case throughout the United States or any part thereof.' The period contemplated, which was 'during the said rebellion,' having passed, there can no longer exist a necessity for its continuance. Indeed, full confidence cannot be restored until all the rights and immunities of the citizen are restored to him, and full confidence reposed in his integrity and patriotism, as well as willingness to discharge faithfully every duty and obligation imposed upon him by the Constitution and laws of the Government, State and Federal. Open wider, then, the portals of justice; restore to them the ancient and beneficent writ of habeas corpus, and allow it to keep 'watch and ward in her temples,' and set at liberty misguided captives." * * *

"The people of the late rebellious States have taken an oath to support the Constitution of the United States, and all laws made in pursuance thereof, and they have taken that oath in good faith; and are they not therefore entitled to all the benefits of that great magna charta?" * *

"Restore this lost principle to the people of the South at the earliest practicable moment, and a thrill of joy will animate the heart of every patriot in the land; confidence will be restored, business will be revived; joy will gladden every heart; bonfires will blaze upon the hill tops and in the valleys; and the church bells will proclaim the glad tidings in every city, town and hamlet throughout the South, and the applause of a grateful people will meet you everywhere. You hold the destiny of this country in your hand. Speak liberty and independence to the people of these States, and millions of people will bless you with their prayers and honor you with their shouts of joy."

THE CHANCES of the passage of the Civil Rights bill by the Senate, over the President's veto, is an interesting theme for discussion just now. The Washington correspondent of the Richmond Republic says the requisite two-thirds cannot be obtained. This correspondent writes that "to pass any bill over the veto requires thirty-four votes when the Senate is full, and it now appears that the following Senators will stand by the President at all hazards, viz:—Buckalew, Cowan, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Guthrie, Hendricks, Johnson, Lane of Kansas, McDougall, Morgan, Nesmith, Norton, Riddle, Saulsbury, Van Winkle and Wiley,—seventeen in all, and a sufficient number to prevent the passage of the bill, even though every seat of the fifty be filled, and every other Senator votes oppositely. Thus we arrive, by mathematical certainty, at the cheering fact that the President of the United States is powerful enough, with the aid of his noble co-adjutors in the Senate, to stem and stop the wild torrent of fanaticism now sweeping over the land."

The Washington Star of Wednesday evening last, in reference to the same subject, says: "It is claimed by the Radicals this morning, that had the Senate gone into a vote to day the Civil Rights bill could have been carried over the veto by the requisite majority by a tight squeeze. They admit, however, that the prospect of its passage, when it again comes up, which will probably be on Monday next, is dubious indeed. They virtually concede that the strong points of the Presidential veto cannot fail to have their weight with all candid minds, and that every hour's pause lessens the chance of successful resistance to it. It is certain that no event less impressive than the death of a fellow-member held in such regard as Senator Foote, would have caused the Radicals to fail to take action upon the veto before the powerful arguments could have time to reach the convictions of the people."

ANOTHER QUIP.—The Standard, and its correspondent "We shall See," have both asserted that a secret organization existed in this State, hostile to the government. We have dared both of them to the proof of their assertion. They refuse to answer. We dare them again. If they had no good ground for the assertion, we charge them with being traitors to North Carolina.—The only political secret association we have heard of in this State, since the Know Nothings, was the Red Strings. Is that yet in existence?

Gen. Grant was invited after service in Grace Church, New York, on Sunday, to remain to hear the organ play. "No," replied the General, "I don't know one tune from another, and would rather hear a bass drum than an organ any day."

This reminds us of a remark made, in the earlier part of the war, by the lamented Brig. Gen. JUNIUS DANIEL, of this State, illustrating his unmusical appreciation. He said that "he could not distinguish Yankee doodle from taps!" The General had no ear for music; but his nature was attuned to all the noblest sentiments and impulses that make the gentleman and the patriot.

The Dead Duck Mad.

The dead duck is as mad as a March hare with the President, because of his veto of the Civil Rights bill. Hear him in a late Chronicle:

"The best criticism upon President Johnson's veto of the Civil Rights' bill is that of the general press—that he stands sternly committed against assisting any measure for the protection and enfranchisement of the loyal millions of the Southern States. Whatever the people may ask—whatever ordinary faith to those made free by no violence of their own, whatever a supreme sense of duty to God and Liberty, may demand—Andrew Johnson's voice will only be raised in defiant denial, and his hand only lifted to hurl the bolt of death. He has another mission marked out—a mission for the rehabilitation of rebel States and the re-enfranchisement of traitor leaders; and to accomplish this, all else must be postponed, and, if necessary, forever destroyed."

The Southern Relief Fair In Baltimore.

As the time approaches for the opening of the great Southern Relief Fair the interest concerning it increases. At the present time, day and night, perhaps thousands of nimble fingers are plying the needle in Baltimore and elsewhere, each fair lady trying to make the display as attractive and the varied articles as desirable as possible. The fair commences at the Maryland Institute on Monday next, and will doubtless have the effect of filling the city with strangers, the various railroad and steamboat companies having reduced the rate of fare for the occasion. The managers, at their last meeting, adopted a resolution that "there shall be no solicitations to buyers, and all change for articles shall be promptly returned;" so no one need refrain from visiting the fair through fear of being too heavily or unexpectedly drawn upon. The managers have also decided to set a table to be known as the "contribution table," where all articles not sent to private individuals, but to the fair, are to be exposed for sale, ticketed with the name of the contributor. Meanwhile articles and donations of every description continue to flow in. One philanthropic gentlemen has donated a lot of ground, another a fine specimen of a mule, a third a fatted ox—all rather unwieldy articles for exhibition at a ladies' fair, but all of which will be availed of to swell up the aggregate receipts. Among the many others who have manifested an interest in this noble charity is Mme. Celeste, who, on Saturday last, gave a grand matinée at the St. Charles Theatre in New Orleans, for the benefit of the Fair, and, the manager having furnished the house gratuitously, doubtless quite a handsome sum was realized.

The lady managers of the fair, in order to add to its attractions, have determined to issue a daily paper during the continuance of the fair. It is understood that arrangements have been made with the Baltimore and Ohio, (including the Washington Branch,) Northern Central and Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad Companies, the Old Line of Norfolk steamers, and the steamers of the Individual Enterprise Line to Annapolis, West river, Miles river, Choptank and Pokomoke rivers, for the issue of commutation or round trip tickets during the continuance of the fair. Similar arrangements are said to be in progress for all the passenger steamers running on the Chesapeake. Baltimore Sun.

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—B. P. Williamson & Co. announce one of the most extensive and attractive Auction Sales of the season for Friday next, 6th inst.

Jas. M. Towles advertises improved agricultural implements, Corn, &c.

Messrs. Dunn, Plummer & Co., Petersburg, one of the most respectable and enterprising firms in the country, offer to the trade a large and well assorted stock of hardware.

Calvin Outlaw, Franklinton, has had a mare stolen, (daily grievance,) and offers a liberal reward for her recovery.

A gentleman of all the necessary qualifications, and of much experience and extensive acquaintance, desires a situation. Address this office.

FIRE.—A chimney on the premises of Mrs. Richard Smith caught on fire on Saturday, which caused some excitement on the streets. No damage was done.

STATE SALE.—The sale of mules and waggons belonging to the State, at Rocky Mount, last week, resulted as follows: 50 mules and 10 waggons brought $7,500 cash.

REV. A. M. SHIPP, formerly Professor of History and Belles Lettres in the University of North Carolina, is now President of Wofford College, S. C.

FREEDMEN IN EDGECOMBE.—We learn that the Freedmen are doing pretty well in Edgecombe. The men are laboring as well as was expected. The women are doing no out-door work. Laborers receive thirteen dollars per month and their food, deducting lost time from any cause.

BUSINESS IN WILMINGTON.—The Wilmington Dispatch asks: "What do people mean by crying "dull times," when Wilmington is supporting three steamship lines? There are no less than seven steamships plying between Wilmington and the cities of Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, besides an indefinite number of sailing vessels. This looks like business, and still we hear complaints of "dull times." Most of these lines of steamships are advertised in the Sentinel, and we hope to be thus instrumental in aiding the business interests of our sister city.

HALIFAX COUNTY.—A correspondent of the Norfolk Virginian gives an interesting sketch of the early history of this County, as well as some current items of news. We make the following extract:

"Halifax has produced many learned and distinguished names. Among them are William Richardson Davie, John and Edward Crowell, Hon. Willis Alston, Hon. Joseph J. Daniel, Hon. Hutchins G. Burton, Hon. John Branch, Hon. Jesse A. Bynum, Hon. John Reeves Jones Daniel and B. F. Moore, who is now an eminent lawyer.

Halifax, like its sister towns, bears the marks of improvement. Messrs. Underdown & Co., wreckers, of your city, are engaged in raising a schooner, which has a cargo of fifty-four bales of cotton, which struck on a rock three years ago and was sunk. They have succeeded in getting her on the flat and are pumping her out.

General Mat. Ransom had a very serious difficulty, a few days ago, which came near being fatal, with one of the freedmen in his employ. He had occasion to reprimand him for the slothful manner in which he did his work; but the freedman threw himself on his dignity, and doubted the capacity of the General to judge of his work, and, with oaths and insolence, his conduct was such that the General called upon his father, who is quite an aged man, to go to the house for his pistol. The General fired one barrel, thinking to frighten him; the negro advanced with an uplifted hoe; the second barrel did not explode. The negro struck the General, which disabled his left arm. He then fired the second time without effect.—The negro gave him another blow which disabled the other arm. A hand-to-hand encounter then ensued, and but for the interference of a negro man, doubtless the negro would have killed him, as he swore he would do. The General's father went to the house for a gun, and in his absence the negro made his escape.—The other freedmen were loud in their execrations of the villain."

Professor York.

At a called meeting of the female members of Rutherford Seminary, Burke county, N. C., Miss Mattie Johnson being called to the Chair, and Miss J. E. McGalliard appointed Secretary, the following resolutions were unanimously passed:

Resolved, That we were highly edified and benefitted by the recent lectures of Prof. York upon etiquette or social law, delivered in Rutherford Seminary on the 15th and 16th inst., and that we exhibit our appreciation of the same by inviting him to come among us as often as possible, and give us lectures upon other subjects of interest.

Resolved, That we publicly recommend Prof. York as an efficient and interesting lecturer, to all students of our sex in the State, humbly trusting that others of our sister students may enjoy the like privilege with ourselves of improving their social education.

Resolved, That these resolutions be published in the Raleigh Sentinel, and that all papers in North Carolina, favorable to education, be requested to copy the same.

THE LAST PRISONER.—We are informed that Hayton Davis, the last of the Confederate prisoners who had been in confinement at Fort McHenry, reached Petersburg, Monday last. He served through the war as a member of Barksdale's brigade of the army of Northern Virginia. He lost his leg in the battle of Cedar Creek, October, 1864, and was there captured. He was detained by the nature of his wound, and speaks in the most grateful terms of the kind treatment received from the U. S. officers and soldiers at the Fort. The Index says he left for his home in Anson County, N. C., the next morning.

GENERAL NEWS.

WASHINGTON, March 29th.—Both Houses of Congress attended the funeral ceremonies of Senator Foote, held in the Senate Chamber to-day. The different Departments were closed at early noon to-day, by order of the President, in respect to his memory.

Both Houses of Congress have adjourned till Monday.

THE CABINET AND THE VETO.—The President convened his Cabinet at an early hour to-day for the purpose of submitting to them the veto message; but one member of the Cabinet was previously consulted in regard to it, and of course the others knew nothing until they had heard it read. Seward, McCulloch and Welles fully indorsed it, while Speed, Harlan and Dennison gave no indorsement to it. No suggestions were made by any member of the Cabinet. —Washington Correspondent N. Y. World.

A very destructive fire occurred at Danville, Va., on Tuesday last. Twelve buildings were consumed, and among the number the Danville Woolen Factory. The loss is estimated at two hundred thousand dollars. Insurance unascertained.

Of Senator Morrill's bad faith, in voting against Senator Stockton, of New Jersey—after having "paired off" with Senator Wright—the Journal of Commerce says:

"What trust can be reposed in men who neither honor God, obey the Constitution, or fulfill private promises?"

The Florida people are raising money to pay the expenses of Major Gee's defence.

THE "PROFESSIONS."—A Northern paper states that among the Virginians recently examined before the Reconstruction Committee, were seven colored men, including a minister, a doctor, a dentist, and a Baptist Missionary.

THE LAST MAN OF THE RETREATING ARMY.—The Petersburg Index, speaking of the desecration of a burial lot in Pocahontas, near that city, makes the following interesting mention of the last devoted North Carolinian:

"There is buried here one soldier—a North Carolina Curtius—who, on the night of the evacuation, was left at Pocahontas bridge to fire it, and was killed there, the last man of the retreating army. He was found dead by the Federal forces in advancing, and by them interred, a blanket his only coffin, and the apron of a woman who came there to weep his only shroud."

We add, disturb him not, but let a monument be erected to his heroic memory!

Mrs. Swisshelm is "paying attention" to Miss Anna Dickinson. It will be a good match.

It is reported that General Canby has decided in favor of John T. Monroe, Mayor elect of New Orleans, and that the latter will assume his office.

A procession of seventy-nine elephants, arrayed in gaudy trappings, was one of the striking features of a late industrial exhibition at Nagpore, India.

The Jacksonville (Fla.) Times says that thousands of negro children are being educated in that State by their present employers who were slaveholders.

The Western papers are singing the dirge of the peach crop.

The new Atlantic telegraph cable will bear a strain of 15 cwt. to a ton more than the old one.

Josh Billings says that Deleware may be described just now as the "land of shadders."

Three burglars were caught drilling a safe in New York. They were put in a safe place.

When General Grant shaves himself the fact is telegraphed to the New York Tribune.

DISLOYAL BEEF.—A city paper contains an official advertisement inviting certain proposals for beef, but declaring that "No bids will be entertained from persons who come under the exceptions of the President's amnesty proclamation, nor will bids in which such persons are interested, either directly or indirectly, be received, unless they can produce the pardon of the President. Bids from all other persons under said proclamation, must be accompanied by the amnesty oath."—Augusta Constitutionalist.

TOO GOOD TO BE LOST.—When General Butler was recalled from the Department of the Gulf, and superceded by General Banks in the command of New Orleans, the Mayor's office was tendered to him to take his congé of such persons as felt desirous of paying their respects previous to his departure. As may be supposed, there was a rough gathering of the low orders, male, female and juvenile, and among them were several Hibernian ladies, with their unwashed babies, who came to shake hands with the General. One Irish woman handed her baby for a kiss, and, taking the General by the hand, addressed him as follows:

"Good bye, General; I'll say this for ye—that ye niver stole anything from me. Good bye, General."

Sterling King, who states that it was he and not Payne, that tried to kill Mr. Seward, is still alive in the Louisville jail.

The Louisville Courier denies the statement that General Basil Duke is mixed up with the Fenian business.

The Jackson News says that two of the five million cotton loan of Mississippi have been redeemed.

Governor Sharkey, says the Vicksburg Herald, has become a claim agent. There's one honest man at the business.

The Macon Beacon announces the early appearance of a book by Dr. Lyles—a history of frauds perpetrated by cotton thieves along the Mobile and Ohio road from Corinth to Mobile.

The fortifications on the "Battery" at Charleston are being levelled for a promenade ground.

Worms.

M. R. Dieseway, of Va. writes: "A dyspeptic acquaintance used the SOUTHERN HEPATIC PILLS, and found them so useful that since his removal to Missouri he has sent in another for a gross of them. I have known them to be most efficacious in expelling worms from children, and in one instance great relief was given in case of varicose veins and piles."

PHILOMATHESIAN HALL,

March 24th, 1866.

At a Meeting of the Philomathesian Society, March 23rd, 1866, the Following Resolutions were Adopted.

WHEREAS, During the late war with the United States, a large number of the members of this Association have laid down their lives, in obedience to the call of their country; and leave, by their self denial, their devotion to principle and their constancy in the hour of trial, earned a place among the heroes and martyrs of history; therefore,

Resolved, That we will ever cherish the memories of our gallant brethren who have fallen in defence of their homes, their altars, and their firesides—of the land they loved, and the liberties they inherited; and that we will assiduously collect, and record in a book entitled the "Memorial," such authentic sketches, biographical notices, and other reminiscences, of our lamented associates, as shall be alike interesting to the living and honorable to the dead.

Resolved, That in promotion of the object the relatives and friends of the deceased are, and they are hereby requested, to communicate to us any information in their possession, or within their reach; and that the members of the Society throughout the country are earnestly solicited to lend efficient assistance in collecting and forwarding materials for the "Memorial."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,

Are the most perfect purgative which we are able to produce, or which we think has ever yet been made by any body. Their effects have found only shown to the community how much they excel the ordinary medicines in use. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activity of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow disease, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart a healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of everybody, but also formidable and dangerous diseases. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and, being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief, were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character, as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of our remedies, while others have sent us the assurance of their conviction that our Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of our afflicted, suffering fellow men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis our American Almanac, containing directions for the use, and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from out stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the bowels and pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Diseases which require an evacuant medicine. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with other preparations which they make more profit on. Demand AYER'S and take no other. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & Co., and sold by Williams & Haywood, P. F. Pescud, Raleigh, N. C., and Dealers generally.

Curious Epitaphs.

There have been many collections of curious epitaphs. Henry T. Williams, writing for the Independent, has got together, with some already well known, several that we have not before seen. Here are some of the funniest:

In Saratoga, New York, is a tombstone containing a carved image of a locomotive, and in the window is a photograph of the engineer to whom the monument is erected. Underneath are the following lines:

"My engine is now cold and still,
No water doth her boiler fill,
The wood affords its flames no more,
My days of usefulness are o'er."

The following is said to be on the tomb of a lady who is buried in Baltimore. She was born in 1613, and died in 1733:

"Stop passenger until my life you read,
The living may get knowledge by the dead.
Five times five years I lived a virgin's life,
Ten times five years I was a virtuous wife,
Ten times five years I lived a widow chaste,
Now wearied of this mortal life, I rest.
Between my cradle and my grave have been
Eight mighty kings of Scotland, and a queen.
Four times five years the Commonwealth I saw
Ten times the subject rose against the law.
Twice did I see old prelacy pulled down,
An end of Stuart's race I saw, nay more,
My native country sold for English ore.
Sin desolation in my life have been,
I have an end of all perfection seen."

Epitaph on Thomas Shorthose:

"Here jaist Tom Shorthose:
Sine tomb, sine sheep, sine riches;
Quhe vivit sine gown, sine cloak,
Sine shirt, sine breeches."

Epitaph in a churchyard near Salisbury, England:

"On Richard Button, Esq.,
Oh! Sun, Moon, Stars, and ye celestial Poles!
Are graves then dwindled into Button Holes?"

In Pittsfield, Mass.:

"When you my friends are passing by,
And this informs you where I lie,
Remember, you ere long must have—
Like me a mansion in the grave.
Also 3 infants, 2 sons and a daughter."

About the year 1815, an account of a Kentish miller's funeral was given in the papers. He left handsome legacies to his executors on condition that they should bury him under the mill, and place the following epitaph, his own composition, above him:

"Underneath this ancient mill
Lies the body of poor Will,
O'd he lived, and odd he died,
And at his funeral nobody cried;
Where he's gone and how he fares,
Nobody knows and nobody cares."

The sarcasm, "Believe a woman or an epitaph," loses half its point when we read the following from a graveyard in Massachusetts:

"Ebenezer Dockwood, aged forty-seven,
A miser and a hypocrite, never went to heaven."

In the same yard:

"This to the memory of Ellen Hill,
A woman who would always have her will,
She snubbed her husband though she made good bread,
And on the whole he's rather glad she's dead.
She wrapped her children (and she drank her gin,)
Whipped virtue out, and whipped the Devil in.
May all such women go to some great fold,
Where they through all eternity can scold."

Another:

"John Tuttle, Schoolmaster;
May he be punished as often as he punished us;
He was a hard old shell;
He said the Lord's prayer every morning;
May the Lord forgive him as often as he forgave
us;
That was never.
We, his scholars, rear this stone over his ashes,
Though they are not worth it;
We are glad that his reign is over.
Amen."

Another:

"Fair as a rose, when first it smiles
On the green earth—her pretty wiles
In childhood shadowed gentle worth;
But oh! how false all things of earth.
Sleep on, nor wake, we pray you, Anne,
Your guile has ended many a man;
Coquette you lived and dirt you died,
Death made you his unwilling bride."

Another:

"To the memory of Mary Gold,
Who was g'd in nothing but her name.
She was a tolerable woman for an acquaintance
But O. H. himself couldn't live with her.
Her temper was furious;
Her tongue was vindictive;
She resented a look and frowned at a smile,
And was as sour as vinegar.
She punished the earth upwards of forty years;
To say nothing of her relations."

Another:

"To the memory of Captain Barber, a staunch patriot; who fought and bled for his country; who was foremost in all the stirring deeds of his nation's history. Known to be a liberal man; but he was a glutton and a wine biber! Drove his only son to sea, and to ruin; killed his wife by his misdeeds, and died drunk in his fifty-first year."

Witty and Whimsical.

"It is a shame," said a starved corset-maker, "that I, who have stayed the stomachs of thousands, should be without bread myself."

MAKING HIS BREAD.—A gentleman having occasion to call on a solicitor, found him in his office, which was very hot. He remarked the great heat of the apartment, and said, "it was as hot as an oven." "So it ought to be," replied the lawyer; "for 'tis here I make my bread."

SOFT SOAP FOR ALL.—For a lieutenant, call him captain; for a middle-aged lady, kiss her and say that you mistook her for her daughter; for a young gentleman rising fifteen, ask his opinion respecting the comparative merits of a razor; for young ladies, if you know their color to be natural, accuse them of painting.

A fellow was told at a tailor's shop that three yards of cloth, by being made wet, would shrink one-quarter of a yard. "Well, then," he inquired, "if you should wet a quarter of a yard, would there be any of it left?"

TOO LONG BY HALF.—On a recent occasion, a gentleman was coming from York, England, by the Great Northern railway, and it appeared, as ill luck would have it, that there sat opposite to him a gentleman with remarkably long legs, which he was not very particular about digging into our friend's knees. On the arrival of the train at Birmington, the long-legged man observed to his neighbor, "I shall get out and stretch my legs here a bit, as we wait ten minutes." "For goodness' sake, sir, don't do that!" said our friend, "for I am quite sure they are too long by half, already."

RALEIGH, 1866.
LIFE INSURANCE NOTICE.
THE old and well established
Ætna Company, of Hartford,
Offers superior inducements to all who wish to provide for family or friends.
All losses are promptly paid. No case of litigation has ever occurred with this Company. With assets of $3,000,000, it offers to receive one half of the premium in a note and half in cash, and, after the second year, to credit each customer with the dividends of the Company, which are now 50 per cent. With a small outlay, $50.00, or $100,000, or $20,000, may be secured to the family after their earthly providers are taken away. What father or husband would not feel thankful on his dying couch, that he had availed himself of every proper means to place those nearest and dearest to him, above the privileges of want, and a life of dependence upon friends or charity? 8 812 policies have been issued from the office ending Jan. 15 1866. The total income for the year 1865 was $1,683,339 57, total disbursements $727 8 5 24, leaving a balance to surplus fund of $1,135,2 4 33.
In Raleigh, a large number have liberally responded and promptly acted in this matter; yet many delay and may wait until it is too late. A man in this city lately left his place of business for his evening meal well and healthy, but never reached that home except as he was carried there to die. Had that man taken the advice of the Agent he might have left $5000 to minister to the necessities of a sorrowing family. Delays are dangerous, procrastination destructive. But one says, "If I only had confidence in the Company that it would pay, I would insure." Well, it never has failed to pay, and to-day is more responsible than ever before. It is patronized by some of the most sagacious minds in the land—men competent to detect and expose any deception if it existed.

THIS valuable Manure has been before the agricultural public, under one name or other twelve years past, and its character for vigor of action and permanence of effect is well established. Before the war, it was introduced, to some extent, in the Southern States, and was found to be highly adapted to Cotton, Tobacco, and all Crops.
In its action, it is as quick as Peruvian Guano, while it does not leave the land in an exhausted state, but on the other hand permanently improves it. This has been fully proven by years of trial.

E. F. Coe's Super-Phosphate of Lime,
OR BONE MANURE.
WARRANTED GENUINE.
BEING MADE OF THE BEST MATERIAL AND in the most approved manner, it is recommended to the public as superior to any other in the market. All who have used it speak of it in the highest terms of praise, and those engaged in its manufacture will continue their best endeavors to advance the high reputation which it has acquired.
We guarantee the Phosphate to be well manufactured, and recommend it in preference to any other artificial manure in the market. We consider it nearly equal to the best Peruvian Guano, although furnished at half the price.
Messrs B. H. Allen & Co., the well known manufacturers of agricultural implements, say of it:
"We take pleasure in stating that we have sold E. F. Coe's Super Phosphate of Lime for four years.—It has given universal satisfaction to our customers. We most cheerfully endorse it as an article worthy of the confidence of the public, and the purchaser may rely upon securing an article honestly and carefully manufactured.
"We would state that, after careful examination we believe this Phosphate has been improved each year since its introduction in this market, and that it will continue to maintain its present high standing. "Very respectfully, has gone into the hands of G. W. DEEMS, the discoverer, who has removed to Baltimore, Md., where he can have access to the purest and best Medicines, on the most favorable terms. He will always keep on hand a large supply and will sell to his customers, wholesale and retail, at the shortest notice.
"R. H. ALLEN & CO.,

Where these Pills are known, especially in the Southern States, where they have been circulated so extensively, they need no recommendation—their merits are so well known by their results.
We thank our customers for the liberal patronage given us heretofore, and hope they will continue to favor us by sending their orders to G. W. DEEMS, No 23 South Calhoun Street, Baltimore, Md., where they will be promptly attended to, the cash accompanying the orders.
